“Listening to Benton is a lot like having the other team’s playbook handed to you a week before the Super Bowl.”

—Edward Shonsey, CEO
Northrup King Company

You want Debra Benton on your team.

Debra Benton is an effective, charismatic, and powerful speaker/consultant/author who has been in business successfully for over 25 years. She has helped professionals worldwide to design subtle changes in their presentation, attitude, and leadership style that ultimately resulted in an increase in their personal and professional effectiveness.

Her client list reads like a “Who’s Who” in successful business today. Benton’s style and ability to influence positive change has put people “in office,” made companies millions, accelerated career advancement, and created a beneficial ripple affect throughout numerous organizations.

Benton is an award-winning author of several best-selling books that have been translated into fourteen languages. She has been a welcome guest on every major talk show and her work has been covered in most principal business publications.

“When competence is there, the difference between a good career and a great career is twenty percent increased competence, and eighty percent executive presence. In most business dealings, five minutes of the right action and acting is worth five years of hard work,” says Benton.
